Mental Health Counseling

William Temple House provides free and low-cost mental health counseling to individuals, couples and families who do not have health insurance nor the means to pay private pay rates.

Counselors work with people to develop healthy relationships and find long-term solutions to problems.

Counseling is offered on a sliding scale fee of $5 to $30 per session however no one is turned away for inability to pay.

William Temple House emphasizes high-quality professional counseling treatment, respect and open access.

Pastoral Care

People of all beliefs and backgrounds are welcome to receive spiritual support and counseling at William Temple House.

Spiritual support is an important component of William Temple House’s holistic approach because a crisis of faith often accompanies a financial or psychological crisis.

Social Services

Our emergency social services program addresses the needs of the body.

Our food pantry is an emergency resource for individuals and families who need food. We offer a 3-5 day supply of meals.

Our Children's Clothing Closet provides new clothing to schoolchildren in need. We also provide hygiene products, host an emergency dental van, offer prescription drug vouchers, and rent/utility assistance as resources allow.

We make referrals to other services in the community when we are not able to meet a specific need.
